

Army Finds Jap. Naval Officer is Spying on Panama Canal Transport

WASHINGTON — Both the Army and Navy have been conducting vigorous undercover campaigns recently to uncover foreign espionage in this country. The Army has been particularly careful along the Panama Canal. Almost its whole route is guarded as in wartime.

But the other day a Japanese naval captain was discovered serving as mess boy on the Army transport Chaumont which regularly traverses the canal. He had passed as a Filipino.

And for six months he had served food to officers, worked under the very nose of the War Department.

Note—The United States has no redress against spies of this kind, since the Espionage Act comes into force only with the declaration of war. The Japanese naval captain was deported.

Agricultural Pork

George Peek may be down but he is not out.

The burly Foreign Trade Adviser to the President has just put over a smashing coup in the House Agricultural Committee at the expense of Secretary Wallace and the generalissimo of the AAA, which Peek once commanded.

Calmly disregarding the President's injunction that all Administration legislative proposals must obtain the approval of "Assistant President" Donald Richberg, Peek went directly to the House Committee.

These amendments if enacted into law will shift the whole axis of the Triple A.

From a policy of crop control, its program would be shifted to one of unlimited production and subsidized exports—or, as it is better known, government-financed foreign dumping.

This agricultural relief formula, agitated for more than a decade in the guise of the McNary-Haugen equalization fee bill, is the All-in-All to professional farm leaders. Peek is one of their leaders.

Wallace, Tugwell and other formulators of the Administration's agricultural program, consider the plan unsound and dangerous.

They prevented its incorporation in the Triple A act in 1933; and Peek as head of the AAA tried to put the idea into operation, he was forced to resign.

Now, after two years of repeated rebuffs, he has triumphed to the extent of having the House committee write it into the new farm bill.

Nominally the amendment as written is only permissive.

But another section of the bill requires the Government to use 30 per cent of the annual customs collections—approximately $100,000,000—to finance foreign dumping of farm products.

It also empowers the Secretary of Agriculture to use all funds obtained from processing taxes—$800,000,000 in 1934—for a like purpose.

In practice these last two provisions will mean only one thing—complete nullification of the permissive feature. For no Administration could withstand the tremendous political pressure to ladle out this $900,000,000 pork barrel.

'Bull' Fired As Counsel For German

EDWARD REILLY

Reilly Notified By Hauptmann's Wife That His Services No Longer Needed

NEW YORK, April 4 — Bruno Richard Hauptmann's struggle to escape death in the electric chair as the slayer of the Lindbergh baby became more uncertain than ever today as a result of Mrs. Ann Hauptmann's announcement that she had fired her veteran chief of defense, Edward J. Reilly, named "Bull of Brooklyn" by J. F. Condon.

Hauptmann's wife was today speeding towards Milwaukee to continue the campaign to raise funds for the carpenter's defense.

Mrs. Hauptmann declared she had informed Reilly of her decision to discontinue his services in a registered letter mailed to his Brooklyn office yesterday, although Reilly so far denies receipt of the missive.

The $25,000 fee which Reilly asked for his part in the unsuccessful defense of Hauptmann at Flomington was the direct cause of his dismissal, according to the convicted man's wife. She said the fee was too high and had been submitted prematurely.

CALL HOSKINS INTO INQUIRY

Legislative Committee to Hear Results of Prosecutor's Probe

COLUMBUS, April 4—Donald J. Hoskins, Franklin-co prosecutor, today took the witness stand before the joint legislative committee investigating the state relief situation.

Hoskins, who has been conducting a separate inquiry into Ohio's relief organization, was called as a witness before the legislative committee on the heels of a stormy executive session of the committee last night.

Senator James Metzgerbaum (D) of Cleveland, demanded Hoskins' appearance before the committee, urging that the probe be directed to the charges that former employees of the state relief commission had solicited funds from persons and firms selling relief supplies and turned the money over to John S. McCombe to replenish the Democratic state campaign fund and the inaugural fund.

"The issue is clear," Metzgerbaum asserted. "Either we propose to investigate this phase of the relief situation or we are shirking our duty and pretending things we don't mean."

Metzgerbaum declared Hoskins should be questioned regarding any information he may have obtained in his own investigation that would be of value to the joint investigating committee.

Only one witness appeared before the committee last night. He was William Hartsough Jr., Franklin-co relief director.

CIVIC LEADERS URGE PROPER P. O. FINISHING

Protests Against Second-Hand Furniture, Other Items to be Made

ADOPT RESOLUTION

Inspector' Quarters Finest in Building

A movement was gaining momentum today among leading citizens and service clubs to use pressure in an effort to have the federal post office building and its grounds completed in a satisfactory manner.

First action was taken Wednesday evening when directors of the Chamber of Commerce adopted a resolution to write Senators Donahay and Bulkley and Congressman Mell Underwood in an effort to have the job properly completed.

Other organizations were to have committee meetings today to adopt resolutions of similar nature.

Inspection Enlightening

An inspection of plans for finishing the building discloses that furniture of the cheapest grade, second-hand in many instances, such furniture can be obtained. Hulse Hays received a letter Wednesday from the treasury department asking him to learn what furniture now used in the building owned by Denny Pickens can be purchased.

Since the post office building is the only federal building in the county and since it is brand new, many civic leaders believe all furniture there should be new.

While most federal buildings have been elaborately furnished and decorated the one here, which is nearly completed, has very little adornment. The only marble in the interior is found around the base of the lobby. All the wall-covering is of pine. Nearly the entire basement will be left unpartitioned, according to plans. Postmaster Hays is trying to obtain first grade window shades for the front and sides.

Inspectors Has Quarters

The most elaborate rooms in the entire building will be those reserved for the federal inspector who, as a rule, visits Circleville about once each year. His rooms will be fitted with fine furniture and all conveniences will be available. An "espionage" system by which the inspector can walk behind almost every wall of the building and watch the postal workers at their duties is an innovation.

A shower bath for the benefit of tired and heated carriers was included in the original plans but that, too, had been eliminated. Postmaster Hays is continuing his effort to have the shower installed.

A new sidewalk is badly needed in front of the building. The new walk constructed on the Mound-st side has been criticized because it is too low. This matter was discussed in council Wednesday evening after a protest by Harvey Heffner that the walk might be dangerous during the winter. The walk is even lower than that in front of the property of Judge J. W. Adkins, who was forced to do some cement work to make his walk reach the lower level of that on the post office property.

Curbs Eliminated

The original specifications for the post office included construction of a curb the entire length of the alley next to the Crowe property, but this has not been done. The postmaster will have little (Continued On Page Six)

The doors of the CAC gymnasium will be opened at 6 o'clock for persons already having purchased tickets. Additional tickets will be placed on sale at 7:30 at the gymnasium. Persons waiting until Friday evening to get tickets will take a chance. It is believed, however, many seats will be available even a few minutes prior to game time.

Sale Ends at Noon
The advance ticket sale closes at noon Friday with all tickets remaining at places designated to be picked up at that time.

A preliminary between the Commercial Point and Pickaway-two independent teams will start at 6:30 o'clock with Johnny Heiskell officiating.

Coach Magellan Hairston, of Waterloo, will bring four of the boys who have set the state alive in the past two years of cage activity. They are Wyman and Orlyn Roberts, Curtis McMahon and Wiseman. Beryl Drummond, only member of the team who does not graduate, will not play.

The final CAC practice is scheduled this evening with all members of the squad expected to be present. The squad includes Shadel Saunders, Jim Scoles, Byron Eby, Carl Purcell, Joe Barnes, Eve Merriman, Boyce Parks and Coach Judy Gordon.

It is probable Saunders, Scoles, Purcell, Barnes and Merriman will comprise the starting lineup.

ALEX MORRISON says: If there's one thing to put you off your game and ruin your score, it's trying to get the ball up straight from a poor lie with the brassie. The odds are all against you.

In the first place you probably need plenty of distance on the shot, calling for a powerful swing. Then there is the matter of direction. You are no doubt facing the danger of going into some kind of hazard if you hook, slice or fail to carry far enough.

These things are bound to make you tighten up. You can't make your best swing. The result is that you fail to hit the ball cleanly, and yet you go on trying just the same.

To be successful under these conditions requires an almost perfect swing. You must be free from tension either mental or physical. If you can count on this amount of relaxation and a perfect performance from your muscles, then carry on. Otherwise use a No. 2 or 3 iron.

Next: Wet Sand.

know that one: He's the utility infielder of the Giants, etc., and etc. Anyhow, whatever training camp baseball is and may be, this seems to be no excuse for the St. Louis Cardinals looking from time to time—like something that was left on the back steps with the bananas.

They have and, in some cases, still do, look that way, with the result that even the camp correspondents are becoming alarmed. You generally can't by the way, alarm a camp correspondent. As a matter of fact, you generally can't even find him.

Frisch Uncertain
Anyhow, he's now writing vague but brightly non-committal pieces for his paper and Mr. Frisch, the manager, is brooding very deeply in his bed room. Nobody knows whether Mr. Frisch is brooding on the level or just for practice. But the University of Georgia ball nine hit Mr. Deterium Dean, his pitcher, seven times for three runs in a few innings the other day.

Dean, in fact, has had one good day in the south—the afternoon when he faced Ruth and the Braves and, at that, Ruth hit one over 400 feet, which seems to be about 310 feet further he has hit any others. On an earlier occasion, the Giants smote him for six or seven runs in one inning. Deterium Dean it seems, just hasn't been right. His brother, Tremens, has one most of the pitching down there but in my opinion, he isn't just the type. He's a 20-game guy—no more, no less. Deterium, who never forgets to level even with college boys, won 30 last year.

These statements are generally followed by a rambling remark about a "money" club and the fact that the Cards are only good when the checks are up. I know all about that. They were very good last September. But what were they doing so far behind the Giants at the time? They didn't belong there.

They were very good in the sixth and seventh games of the world series. But what did they mean by even playing a seventh game? They were 2 to 1 a better club than the Tigers.

The point, as I see it, about this St. Louis club is that it's just a little better than it generally wants to be and just a little worse than it thinks it is. A lot of better clubs have finished fifth while trying to figure that out.

GENE SARAZEN IS FAVORED IN GOLF TOURNEY

Burns Up Bobby Jones' Course In Prelims; Field of 64 Stars to Tee Off

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 4.—A stocky, mahogany-faced Italian who back in 1922 stepped from the caddy ranks to win the American open, then duplicated the feat ten years later, topping it off with the British open, today is the reigning favorite as America's golf royalty, begins the 72-hole battle for the Master's golf championship. In as fantastic a melee as golf has seen in years.

Out of tournament play for a year, and turned gentleman farmer at Brookfield Center, Conn., since his return from a world exhibition tour, Gene Sarazen, who in a 15-year career has collected about all the major golf crowns, has fairly scorched the bright green fairways of the Augusta national course in practice play.

Last year, in the first Master's event, young Horton Smith, of Chicago, broke the finish tape with a total of 284, four under par.

Sarazen, in four pre-tournament rounds, stroked his way around this heartbreaking test of championship golf for the appalling total of 271—a mere matter of seventeen strokes clipped from par. Gene started out with a 65 to tie the course record Bobby Jones set last year before his putter began refusing to putt and his approach shots went jittery. Then he evened par with 72. Two subsequent rounds gave him two 67's.

This morning as the first of the 64 picked professionals and amateurs teed off at 10 o'clock, Sarazen was a 6 to 1 favorite to win the event.

But the south, and its chivalry, was not forgetting one Robert Tyre Jones, the Atlanta corporation lawyer.

Bobby, who set the sporting world a-tingle again last year, by re-entering tournament play after the four-year retirement which climaxed his victories in the four major international tournaments of 1930, though he finished far down the list in a 13-place tie with Walter Hagen, is still the drawing card and his looked upon, by the gallery at least, as a distinct threat.

BROOKLYN SPEEDY
ORLANDO, Fla., April 4.—The Dodgers are the only greater New York team left in Florida today after the Yankee desertion yesterday. They'll be here only until Sunday—then they, too, take to the road, heading for Washington, D. C. For two games with the Senators next week. Frenchy Berdagaray has stolen five bases in six attempts down here, one of the reasons Casey Stengel thinks he has a squad to be reckoned with this year. The Brooklyn measured the Browns yesterday, 10-10 in a free-for-all.

army of 60,000 to 80,000 men. Sofia reported that Bulgaria would probably defer concrete action until after the elections slated for May 5, when the present government is expected to be returned to power. But a foreign office spokesman declared: "Bulgaria for years has loyally fulfilled the military clauses of the peace treaties, but it would be a grave injustice if the country were forced to remain defenseless amid other powers that are feverishly rearming." Bulgaria's treaty army is 20,000.

Others Alarmed
Alarm was expressed in the capitals of Rumania, Czechoslovakia, and Yugoslavia, the nations of the Little Entente, and Geneva dispatches were recalled saying that if Hungary rearmed, the little entente would mobilize troops.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 4.—The New York Yankees arrived here today to play Birmingham's own nine—the Barons of the Southern association. This is the first stop on their northward point. The team is in good shape, enthusiastic over the club's pennant chance. Red Rolfe has rounded into an excellent guardian of the hot-corner, making the infield look pretty good.

GIANTS WHIPPED

GREENWOOD, Miss., April 4.—The Giants arrived here today a bit weary by continual jumping around. The Indians, who are making the rounds down here with Terry's boys, do not seem to mind the train-hopping. They bumped off Ye Olde Giants 6-1 yesterday, making Fitzsimmons, one of Terry's "big four," look quite impotent. Parmelee or Hubbell will try for revenge today.

CANTON, O.—A night softball league for northern Ohio cities has been proposed here.

According to local sportsmen, the new loop will be independent and not connected with the national headquarters in Chicago.

A guarantee of $300 has been posted and promises to attract a large number of the best dogs in Ohio.

"PEACE TO THE SLUMBERERS"

Peace to the slumberers
They lie on the battle plain,
With no shroud to cover them;
The dew and the summer rain
And all that sweep over them.
Peace to the slumberers!

Vain was their bravery!—
The fallen oak lies where it lay
Across the wintry river;
But brave hearts, once swept away,
Are gone, alas! Forever.
Vain was their bravery!

Woe to the conqueror!
Our limbs shall lie as cold as theirs

Of whom his sword bereft us,
Ere we forget the deep arrears
Of vengeance they have left us!
Woe to the conqueror!

—Thomas Moore

LOCAL FLORIST TAKES PART IN COLUMBUS SHOW

Biehmer Greenhouses are planning an exhibit at the Columbus Flower show which is held from 12 noon to 10 p. m. on Friday, Saturday, and Sunday at Memorial hall on E. Broad-st.

This is the only large flower show to be held in the State this spring since neither the Cincinnati nor the Cleveland shows are being held this year. The success of the show last year promises a great show this year and flower and garden lovers will be well paid for their attendance. No charge is made for admittance.

The local greenhouse is preparing to feature the new Golden Gleam and Golden Gleam Hybrid and Scarlet Gleam Nasturtiums in their display.

Marian Martin Patterns

Capes? Everybody loves them—they've descended upon fashion like April showers. All sorts of capes. In this charming dress, Marian Martin has minimized the cape influence—but used it to advantage. Joining in front like a raglan sleeve, and cut in one with the yoke in back, these cape sleeves give grace and proper proportioning to the mature figure. A small bow, adroitly placed, adds a winsome touch at the bodice. You'll find the cut of the skirt excellent, too. It's a grand dress to make up in a flower print or a solid sheer, or in voile or lawn for the heat waves to come. The capes may contrast.

Pattern 9342 may be ordered only in sizes 16, 18, 20, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 36 requires 3 7/8 yard 39 inch fabric.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for EACH MARIAN MARTIN pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, the STYLE NUMBER and SIZE of each pattern.

Send your order to The Herald Pattern Department, 124 W. Main St., Circleville, O.

INCOME TAX BALLOT NEAR

WARD'S PLAN GAINS POWER

Letter May Be Used to Gain Davey's Support for Favored Bill

COLUMBUS, April 4.—Income tax proponents today marshaled their forces for an attempt to force a vote next week in the Ohio house of representatives on the Ward bill.

Reported out with a recommendation for passage by the taxation committee, Rep. P. E. Ward's income tax measure is designed to produce $20,000,000 annually and to apply to state employees and public school people who pay no federal income tax.

The author disclosed that instead of waiting for the bill to take its regular place on the House calendar, he or his associates will ask that he be given precedence and be made a special order of business for some day next week.

There has been no intimation from Governor Davey lately as to his present attitude on income tax but in his inaugural address he singled it out as undesirable. But income tax advocates have a surprise awaiting the governor if he takes an active stand against the Ward bill.

They are prepared to bring out on the floor of the House a letter Davey wrote to a prominent Cleveland Democrat during the primary election campaign last Fall, in which he came out in favor of a state income tax, one member told International News Service.

While the rates contained in the Ward bill, upon his first examination, appear to soar as high as 70 per cent on incomes of $1,000, 000 above federal exemptions, the author explained that actually they range only from one to seven per cent.

He used this example to clarify the point: At 70 per cent, the state would be $700,000, but the federal government already levies a 63 per cent tax on the same income, or $630,000. Since the amount paid the federal government is deductible from the theoretical sum due the state, actually the state tax on a million dollars would be only $70,000.

Ward, a former school teacher himself, said it was only fair that the incomes of teachers and state-supported institutions and state employees be taxed as well as those of persons in other lines of endeavor. They pay no federal income tax.

He proposes to equalize taxation by collecting from this special privileged class, and to number between 30,000 and 50,000 persons, the amount they would be required to pay if not exempt from federal income taxes in addition to the regular state income tax paid by persons not on the public payroll.

chance of keeping the lawn on the post office property in neat condition with no protection from the alley.

A contract for landscaping of the property is to be let within a few days and the grounds will be considerably improved but before this work is done, inspection shown, much dirt should be filled in to make the grade as near equal as possible the entire way around the structure.

In many places it would be impossible to try to grow grass because of the condition of the incline.

The post office project since it was finally placed on the approved list has seen slash after slash. The original amount of money set aside for the building was $95,000. Then it was cut 15 per cent and later on still more, including the $20,000 paid for the corner the entire cost will now be about $62,000.

Congressman Underwood has shown his interest in the post office for a number of years (finally getting the job through and it is a certainty he does not know that cheap furniture and other cheap equipment is being installed).

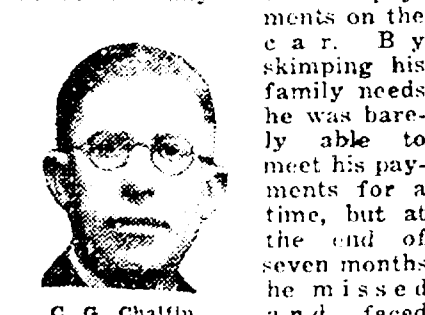

If anything is to be done leading citizens and service clubs must act at once.

Garden Club Notes

By MRS. HOWARD JONES

Chairman Civics Committee

"Ye who fear death, remember April!"

Earth holds the seed ere it comes to pass

That a white bud yields to the wind its perfumed breath.

Or stars burn gold in the tender grass."

—John Richard Moreland

The bugs will get your flowers

If you don't watch out

April is a busy month for the gardener. Not every one who loves flowers finds it easy to grow them. However with a fair modicum of common sense and a keen desire to have a garden which will be a delight for many months one may expect a fair return for hard work and ceaseless attention for these are necessary in any occupation.

Some have success without seeming effort. Everything they plant grows and flourishes with out seeming effort, but to most of us it means hard work and use of all the help we can glean from every source.

What a joy it is to watch things grow. We plant the seed, care for the seedlings, cultivate the garden and feel amply repaid for work and worry as we watch the first little leaves unfold, the tiny plant-let develop into a sturdy plant. We discover a bud some day, how our heart beats as we watch the bud unfold and develop into the perfect flower, delighting us with its color and fragrance.

The greatest pleasure of a garden is raising our plants from seed. They become part of our very being. A flower garden is a safety valve. When cares distress, or friends betray, turn to your garden and find succor of sorrow. Do we feel nervous and unstrung go into the garden and fight the enemies of the plants. They are legion and foemen worthy of our steel.

In this section of the country where late frosts threaten, to destroy early flowers and fruit, it seems best to start our plants indoors.

Put a box in a sunny window and start your plants now. Don't have the box too heavy as you will want to put it out on warm bright days but bring it in when nights are chill. About three inches of soil is all that is necessary for tiny seedlings. Good drainage must be provided. Good earth pulverized, sifted through a mason's sieve, soak soil from the bottom and let it dry for a while. Tamp rather firmly, mark rows shallow. If seeds are very fine an ordinary salt shaker or dredging box is good for distributing seeds evenly. Sift fine soil over the seed, depth decided by size of seed. Cover with news paper. The seeds do not need light until they germinate. A good way to water is to set box or pan in a deep vessel of water and let the water be drawn up from the bottom.

The most critical time in seed growing is just after seeds have germinated. Do not let surface of soil dry out, a few hours of neglect will kill the young sprout.

Look after your bulbs, if your Dahlia bulb have sprouted you may cut off the sprouts when they are four-six inches long, put the sprout in wet sand and it will produce a plant which will blossom the same season. Take care, however, to leave part of the shoot on the tuber. Don't be in a hurry to plant out Dahlias, they are very sensitive to cold.

CITY STORES WELL EQUIPPED FOR EASTER

ALL FILLED BY SPRING STYLES

Gay, Colorful Raiment to Feature Day; All Stores Have Garments On Display

Sunday, April 21, is Easter! That's not far away, and if you are going to join the parade of fashion that has been the custom for ages it is time now to plan your Easter shopping. And to home folks particularly this suggestion is in order: Try Circleville merchants first.

Local merchants have left nothing undone this season in their efforts to provide their patrons with a lavish display of all the new spring styles in all lines of merchandise—for men, women and children. Display windows show only a glimpse of what is in store for the discriminating shopper, but one can get an idea of what has been provided by just making a window shopping tour about the city.

Gay and Colorful
This Easter will be gay and colorful insofar as personal raiment is concerned.

For the ladies, the spring styles in hats, coats, dresses, hosiery, shoes, dainty lingerie, jewelry, and accessories are all being shown in lavish and colorful display at local shops. Mere man cannot submit details or suggestions. In all other ways except admiration and paying the bills, he is a liability.

For the men, old and young, there are new spring suits and top coats of stylish design and material, spiffy headgear that will make you noticeable even in an Easter crowd, shirts, ties, shoes, hosiery and underthings that will give you that dressed-up air of confidence.

And for the youngsters: There's everything they need—and more. Color, style, material and price—a combination that should give every kid a personal pride at this particular Easter season.

And don't forget the flowers, the candy, the best quality of foods, the precious little gifts of remembrance, the greetings to distant friends, and some little articles of furniture or equipment that will make the home more attractive.

The merchants of Circleville can supply your wants in any line. Try Circleville first!

199 Years in Prison

Sigmund Dryjanski

Convicted of the murder of Mrs. Anna Urbanek, elderly Chicago scrubwoman, Sigmund Dryjanski, above, has been sentenced to 199 years in prison. Mrs. Urbanek was the only support of an invalid husband. Dryjanski's only comment on his sentence was, "I'd rather have burned."

Texas Girl Found Beauty Handicap in Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., April 4—Florine McKinney has succeeded despite her beauty!

Just when Fate was placing a beauty crown on her light brown hair, the young actress abdicated and went in for make-up to mask her face in film character roles.

She preferred acting to renown that her beautiful face and her shapely figure had won for her in America and abroad.

Events that followed justified her step. She now is regarded as one of the most versatile of Hollywood's young actresses, able to play love heroines excellently, and character roles with distinction.

Miss McKinney is just over 20 years old, and already accounted a film success. She lives at home with her mother and is a keen business woman.

Born in Mart, Texas, on Friday the 13th she inherited musical talent from both parents. She attended public schools in Fort Worth, played in amateur theatricals, and won fame singing. She won a scholarship in a Chicago conservatory of music and won a sectional title in a nation-wide radio singing contest—when movies entered the scene.

She tossed the radio chance overboard and has never regretted her action. She won a small-pay movie contract and worked her way toward the top despite tempting offers from radio and the stage. She thought a young beauty's chances were far better in Hollywood.

Her picture appearances include "The Merry Widow," "Student Town," "Night Life of the Gods," "David Copperfield," and "Strangers All."

In addition to singing and acting Miss McKinney is an accomplished dancer. Tennis is her favorite pastime. She is unmarried, five feet three inches tall, weighs 108 pounds and has blue eyes.

She spends her evenings at home. And said today that she planned to continue to demand character roles, instead of parts in which she merely would display her beauty!

HUSBAND, 'OTHER MAN' POISONED IN SUICIDE PACT

By International News Service

WASHINGTON, April 4—Two men sat in a cafe discussing a young woman and mother of two children.

Both vowed their love for her even though one of them was her estranged husband, Frank Koehl.

The Koehls had been separated two weeks and the husband admitted to his close friend "and the other man," Ralph Jones, 22, that he loved her dearly.

But when Jones confessed, he too, loved Mrs. Koehl the situation became complicated.

So they agreed on a suicide compact, each promising to swallow two poison tablets. Koehl's mother said Jones' brother entered the cafe at this juncture and overheard their conversation.

After buying the poison the pair went to Koehl's home and swallowed it.

But still the young husband was suspicious.

Police said he accused Jones of not swallowing his two tablets.

To prove his "good faith" Jones, the police reported, swallowed two more.

Then the would-be-suicides telephoned for an ambulance. They were writhing in pain by the time it arrived. The prompt medical attention saved their lives and they were able to return to their homes the following day.

Now the neighbors say the Koehls are "going to make up" and live together again.

And the neighbors in Jones' section report he has confided to friends that "never again" will he attempt to end his life over another girl—and most of a certainty not one who has a husband.

SCORE ONE FOR TAXPAYER

OHIO'S supreme court recently handed down a decision that gives the folk who foot the bills a little more to say as to how and whether their money is to be spent. The decision of the state's highest tribunal prohibits the issuance of any unvoted bonds by a municipality when the total yearly debt charges on such outstanding issues of all character would equal or exceed the 10-mill constitutional tax limitation.

Certainly that is justice. Otherwise, why any tax limitation? And the citizens should have a voice in the spending of their cash, not being forced to abide entirely by decisions of a few officials.

The opinion is believed to have almost wiped out, except for issues approved by popular vote, the bond issuing authorities of municipalities. Many attorneys are of the opinion that most municipalities will be prohibited by the decision from issuing even special assessment bonds without a vote of the people.

In computing the amount of bonds a municipality may issue, no consideration in the past has been given to special assessment, water-works and other municipal utility bonds, as they are presumed to be paid from revenues derived from special assessments and revenues derived from operation of the public utilities. Under the court's ruling, all such bonds hereafter must be included in computing the total for which taxes may have to be assessed.

Some criticism has been directed at the decision by persons who believe that municipalities contemplating bond issues for public works in connection with the federal government's relief program may find their hands tied and will have to submit all such bond issues to a referendum. These critics have not made clear just why the citizens should have a voice in expenditure of their funds.

This look likes another "break" for the taxpayer. He can stand it, too.

MERRIWELL ON THE SCREEN

THE EAGLE, according to a more or less reliable tradition, renews its youth by means of a prolonged sleep in a nest on an inaccessible mountain crag, a means to an important end which is hardly practicable for the humans down in the valley.

But, thanks to Hollywood, from which both bad and good comes, the pages of time are to be turned back a few years and the oldsters are to be given an opportunity to recapture some of the delights of youth—delights provided at a cost of five cents and contained between lurid paper covers.

Announcement has been made that the films will present a series of the exploits of Frank Merriwell, the peerless hero of three decades ago, invincible with his fists, with baseball bat and rifle, whose prowess was ever employed against the forces of evil, at whose hands virtue always triumphed regardless of the odds.

The generation that grew up on this surreptitious literature, which was read chiefly in barns, woodheds and the open fields, far from the critical gaze of parents and teachers, will welcome the return of the idol of youthful years. He should produce a rejuvenating effect.

Wonder what ever became of Tom Heflin, not that it matters.

You are still young if it doesn't seem a waste of life to sleep two hours after sunup.

Thank the man who says your job looks easy. It takes an expert to make a job look that way.

Hollywood concedes that Dickens has possibilities. Apparently, then, the old master has arrived after 123 years.

There were 45,351,707 packs of playing cards sold in 1934. It's gratifying to learn that at least one of the great ne eds of our times has been met.

A legislator in the west charged with bribery says he was promised some money but never got it. This is outrageous and shows how unreliable some of our crooks are.

GYPSY GIRL

THE STORY OF AN IMPASSIONED ROMANCE

READ THIS FIRST:
Consuelo, a beautiful gypsy girl who longs to dance, is loved by the Duke, a deaf mute, and Maria. She desires her father, Duke, but is fond of her father, Duke. Maria tempts Consuelo with a huge diamond and she agrees to marry him. But on her wedding day she boards a train for New York on which are riding Stewart Blackmore, theatrical producer, Doug, his secretary, and Bill, a friend. Consuelo had danced for them 10 days previously when their private car had been waiting on a railroad siding in town. In New York a series of publicity stunts prepares the gypsy for her debut in the Folies. She has an altercation with Louise, star of the show and Stewart's friend. Doug takes Consuelo to a fashionable shop to outfit her in American clothes. (NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 24
AFTER A WHILE Madame came out alone. Her words tumbled from French into English and back into French, and with the assistance of both languages she could not find the words she wanted to describe the gypsy girl. Apparently she had never seen anyone so beautiful or with such a perfect body, or such shapely legs. And the color of her skin! Madame went into ecstasies. That golden skin was the shade every woman was trying to get with paint and powder and not succeeding. And her hair—Mon Dieu! Words were useless, less than nothing, and Madame flung up her hands and said, "Wait, my good friend, until you see what we are doing to her," and she disappeared again.

Doug stuck his hands in his pockets and waited. He knew Madame and he knew the size of her bills, but even for a good sale he had never heard her rave so before. He grinned to himself, "And dear old Stewart said to me, 'My boy, spare no expense.' What a surprise he has coming!"

In the excitement of the day Consuelo forgot her vow of vengeance. She was the happiest person in New York and she walked on the high hill and did not question why. Music was thrilling through her and she could not see her feet still.

She and Doug were like children with a secret between them. They carried mysterious packages into the theater and hid them in her dressing room. After much discussion they let Ann into the secret, after Big Ann had promised not to tell.

It was a big event in more ways than one when Consuelo went to the theater for her first night on Broadway, the street where names are made or forgotten over night. Before she went to her dressing room she glanced through the wings to the dark stage set for the opening number, and a thrill raced through her body. It was no longer an empty stage without meaning to her. She obeyed instructions that she was not to leave her dressing room until she was called, but she wanted to go running to see what this theater was like when it was "alive."

She left her door open and the sounds of music and then of clapping came to her. The time stretched out endlessly and it was all she could do to stay in the dressing room and not go running to the stage.

Doug came up.
"It can't be long now, baby." He was as excited as she. "It's a great house, full to the brim and standing room sold out. They're out there waiting for the gypsy dancer. Oh, kid, just then how you can dance! Dance as I know you can—just don't need to tell you. Just dance, baby, dance!"

Her heart was beating fast, temples throbbing.

"I shall!" She caught her breath. "I wish the dummy was here and Maria and even Anica—I wish they were all here to share with me this night, my night!"

AN OLD CUSTOM

Over in our neighboring city of Lancaster the sounding of the fire alarm to designation the time and location of a fire is to be discontinued. This action was taken at the request of fire department officials who stated that Mr. and Mrs. Citizen drive madly to a fire block the streets, drive over the hose, interfere with the work of the firemen, and, in a great many instances, beat the department to the scene of the fire. So, henceforth, the time and location of a fire is to be kept a dark secret.

Rushing madly to a fire is an old custom which probably originated with the first fire way back there soon after Adam and Eve were banished from the Garden of Eden. When and where it was, I'll admit I don't know. It is a habit that we'll not likely want to stop—that is, not all at once, until we get used to the idea. We've become so accustomed to getting excited at every fire alarm that we'll just naturally pass out if we can't find out all about it within the next few seconds. We insist on going to fires, rushing in "where angels fear to tread," throwing the furniture out through the side of the house, breaking up the dishes, and breaking up the cook stove with a sledge hammer. We insist on telling the fire chief how to fight the fire, tell the boys where the water is needed most, maybe tell the engineer how to operate the motor—and then drive our automobiles over the lines of hose and shut off the water supply. We think we are within our right, know that we are in our glory, and the bystanders think we've gone crazy—which is probably nearer the truth.

Spectators go to a fire to see a fire—and if it don't materialize they think they've been cheated out of some excitement and proceed to make some excitement on their own account.

I asked a man one time about the amount of damage incurred when he had a small fire at his home. And this is about the gist of his reply:
"Well, the fire boys put the fire out with a hand extinguisher in about two minutes, with a loss of only a couple of dollars for wall paper and paint. But the spectators came near wrecking the place, even to cutting down the lawn fence. I wish now I had let the house burn."

PASS A LAW
There's a bill being considered in the Ohio legislature which, if passed, will prevent farmers from treating their own hogs with tuberculin and anti-hog cholera serum and virus. The same bill regulates for the sale and administration of hog serums, and, I presume, puts it in the hands of the brain trust in the hands of the ideas of the legislature.

More than four-fifths or 87 per cent of milk is water and the remainder is milk, sugar, fat, and protein.

Left handedness occurs in about 9 per cent of human beings.

Manus Papius was a Roman writer of tragedies.

The call boy came. It was time now.

Consuelo ran down the steps, with Doug behind her and Ann bringing up the rear.

Hadley, the stage manager, stopped her.

"Wait till I tell you, gypsy!" He spoke sharply.

Consuelo paused, flushed, watching. She gripped Doug's hand, her own trembling.

"Steady, baby, you've got a few more minutes to wait. Steady!" His voice was shaky.

The stage was blacked out and the curtain came down. Lights went on dimly. Men moving quickly. People in makeup hurrying back to the dressing rooms. The orchestra was playing.

"It's my dance!" cried the girl in a panicky whisper. "Let me go!"

"Steady, baby! Not yet! Remember they play the first bars over, you know. Don't get nervous. Doug's right here." He squeezed her fingers. "Wait till the curtain goes up and then dance, baby."

"All right, gypsy?" It was Hadley. "You're shaking like a leaf. Scared?"

"Not nervous, kid?" Goldberg's voice.

"All right, now, kid. Go on!" "Dance, baby, I'm counting on you—dance!"

A burst of applause greeted her entrance, then silence settled over the audience. Silence, expectant, silence that was a challenge flung in the face of this newcomer.

For an instant the gypsy was bewildered. The lights were blinding. The wings of the stage seemed to be closing in upon her until there was no space left to dance in, until she could scarcely breathe. The music seemed far away, as if a thick mat was holding it off and she began to dance to its strains like an automaton.

She could feel the curious eyes of backstage burning upon her, hostile, reaching out to discredit this that was her very life. Now for the first time her feet were unsteady and her gypsy assurance vanished. She faltered and the dead silence out front made her feel like a foreigner in her own country.

Her mind was a blur of confusion. The high hill was forgotten, the marble palace nonexistent, the only real thing an overwhelming sense of defeat. Then for the space of an instant she caught sight of Louise, Louise watching, curiosity greater than pride, a smug look engraved across her pretty features. That look was enough. It was the spark to set gypsy blood afire. Consuelo heard again the words "dirty gypsy—danced rotten!"

"Right deserted her. In a rushing torrent assurance returned. She became alive. She began to dance as she had never danced before, feet lighter than the thistle-down. The music of the orchestra was no longer dulled, but throbbing through her, drawing response from every cell of her body. Now she was the gypsy once with no more her peer! Now she was in the marble palace!

She forgot Louise. She forgot the critical eyes upon her. The stage was no longer small, for now it was of marble and the wings had become white columns towering high overhead. The dancing girl front was the hill and if she but looked she would see the people, thousands and thousands crowding the hill down as far as the eyes could glimpse. Ah, now, she was dancing to them! Ah, now, she was dancing to them! Ah, now, this was a triumph! Ah, now, this was a triumph!

And the stars descended to her eyes and she was like a flame that caught this blaze New York audience in a grip of magic and held them fascinated. The inspiration of her dance seemed to flow from her on tiny streams of silver, catching the silent hours in spellbound wonder and it thrilled with her. Never previously had Broadway seen dancing as this wild gypsy danced. Then came the end and truly it was that New York lifted her up in its arms and cheered her as its own with its deafening applause.

Backstage was just as breathless. She had proved herself and they were for her—that is, all but the golden-haired star.

Goldberg was wild with excitement. The kid had turned the trick! Gone over with a bang! He was pushing her back on the stage.

"You've done it! Bow—bow to them and wait for your flowers!" Thunderous ovation! The stage was banked with flowers, ushers lined up, fragrant, pouring about her, clapping, lifting her to the heights. The world at her feet! The marble palace!

OHIOAN'S IDEA TO STOP WARS WINS PLAUDITS

Rep. Kloeb of Celina Would Stop Credit of All Engaging In Conflict

WASHINGTON, D. C. April 4—From an obscure little Ohio town has come a program that Congressional leaders predict will have a world-wide effect in curbing war.

The plan is one conceived and incorporated in a bill by Representative Frank L. Kloeb (D) of Celina, O., which would prohibit extension of credit to any government or citizens of any nation engaged in conflict unless this country is engaged in war as an ally of the nation.

Years of study of effective methods of curbing war profits to discourage armed conflict by Kloeb have been rewarded as the House Foreign Affairs committee this week assured him his bill will receive early consideration. Many house leaders have promised Kloeb their support for the bill to prevent the United States from becoming involved in another war, threatened by developments in Europe.

Explains His Plan

Kloeb explained his interest in the measure, pointing out: "I have studied the causes that plunged us into the late world war. It has always been my opinion that certain international bankers made extensive loans to certain European nations at war from 1914 to 1917 and when they saw indications that their loans were in danger they were anxious to see the United States enter the war in order to make their loans secure."

The Celina, O. congressman warned that "the greatest danger we face in being drawn into another war is the desire for trade and profit."

"My bill would not prevent trade, but warring nations would have to pay cash. If such purchases were made, the nations would have to use their own ships to transport materials purchased."

WASH OUT 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES

Wm. Back Pop... View...
Medical authorities agree that your kidneys contain 15 MILES of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy.
If you have trouble with too frequent bladder passages with scanty amount causing burning and discomfort, the 15 MILES of kidney tubes need washing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swollen feet and ankles, rheumatic pains and dizziness.
If kidneys don't empty 3 pints a day and get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste matter, your body will take up these poisons causing serious trouble. Don't wait. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS... an old prescription... which has been used successfully by millions of kidney sufferers for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help to wash out the 15 MILES of kidney tubes. Get DOAN'S PILLS at your druggist. © 1934, Foster-McBurg Co.
